

HOUSE PASSES BILL AGAINST MEDICINAL BEER BY 250 TO 93

But Vote Shows Loss for Radical Prohibitionists and Gain for the Liberals.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—The Willson-Campbell bill prohibiting the use of beer as medicine has passed the House by a vote of 250 to 93.

It was rushed through in record time by the Prohibition forces to forestall action by the Prohibition Commissioner in permitting the sale of beer for medicinal purposes, as required under a ruling of former Attorney General Palmer. This ruling was made on the present Volstead law and was not changed by Attorney General Daugherty.

An appeal by Prohibition leaders, likely to meet with success, has been made to Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair to hold back regulations under the Palmer ruling until the Senate can pass the Anti-Beer Bill. There is no doubt the Senate will act with despatch on the House legislation. New York Congressmen generally opposed the Anti-Beer Bill. Several of them spoke against it in the House. These included Kindred, Ryan, Griffin, Volk and Cockran. Those voting against the bill were Anson, Carew, Cockran, Cullen, Crowther, Fairchild, Griffin, Houghton, Hogan, Kindred, Kiesel, Kline, Lee, London, MacGregor, Mills, Ryan, Sullivan, Snyder, Ten Eyck, Volk, Ward, Chandler, Mead, Riordan, Magee. New York Representatives voting for the bill were Clarke, Ricks and Dunn.

RESTAURANT HOODH RAID.

Detectives Say They Found Big Hoose Supply—Arrest Two.

Angelo Bertolotta, fifty-eight years old, a restaurant keeper at No. 85 West Third Street, and John Capprioglio, twenty-six, of No. 46 Duane Street, a waiter, were arrested this morning by Detectives Caspers and Williamson on a charge of violating the State Prohibition Act. The detectives say they found in the restaurant sixty bottles of gin, twenty-four of whiskey and thirty-four of wine.

While they were in the restaurant, the detectives say, the waiter dropped a bottle they think held whiskey. They scooped up some of the liquid with a spoon and put it in a bottle as evidence.

Among Puritan embroidery relics are bedspreads adorned with "candle-wick" embroidery. Candle wicking was run through muslin in handsome designs and then nipped. The result was a profusion of clustered threads resembling a garden of white clovers.

This lovely old custom has been revived. Similar bedspreads are now seen in well-appointed modern homes. The simple art of embroidering them is called Tuft-Craft. Many-stranded thread is used instead of candle-wicking, and it is couched on instead of sewed through the fabric.

Fringed unbleached muslin Spreads stamped in a variety of large, handsome designs for tufting will be found in our Art Department on the Third Floor.
